ATENOR PLEDGES SUPPORT FOR COVID-19 RESPONSE

La Hulpe, 5 Mai 2020

As an affirmed European urban actor of more than 10 years' standing, ATENOR is actively engaged in providing answers to the challenges faced by our cities in a mindful and responsible way.

ATENOR principles and ethical values shape the culture and build the reputation of the company. Taking on the social challenges of the city of tomorrow, which will be more and more high density and interconnected, entails building a greener, more sustainable and more friendly city, a city that is good to live and work in.

'Acting for cities' is also acting for its most valuable asset, its citizens. Driven by this value, the whole ATENOR team is engaged in imagining and designing cities with the citizens' best interest at heart. The wellbeing of citizens is the cornerstone of our societal commitment.

In our cities, for many weeks now, there are thousands of citizens putting their lives at risk to help the sick, to support those who are most in need and to keep the rest of us safe. Tackling this global pandemic requires the involvement of all and ATENOR is willingly and deliberately taking its share through concrete support.

Acting at international level, with its roots in Belgium, ATENOR has decided to allocate funds to support medical research and medical staff in university hospitals as well as to help associations who take care of vulnerable citizens most in need.

In these difficult times when social distancing has become the rule, ATENOR remains active in creating other links between citizens, and solidarity and societal responsibility are one of those crucial links. A crisis of the magnitude of the COVID-19 pandemic requires a comprehensive approach with the collaboration between all actors, institutions, private companies and civil society. Acting for the benefit of all requires unity.

We are all operating in uncertain times and it is more important than ever to come together. Every step counts and can make a difference.

*Take care . Be active
Stronger all together*
